PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It's that time of the year again!!

Spring has sprung and the ride season is really underway! Our members are really 'popping up' all over the place, as far south as Warner Hot Springs – Bob & Peggy; and placing well in rides, including DVE – Top 3 & BC 1st day 50 were all QSER members; Judith placing 1st and winning BC at 20 Mule Team 100; 8 of the 19 riders on the 100 miler CEI ride at Git-R-Done, including winner Heather Reynolds and one of our Juniors, Ildi, being among them; Lori Olsen winning the 70-mile American River Ride with her 8-year-old mare Ms Rosie Grey (whom she's owned her whole life); and talk about 'going the distance': Nick Warhol & Pam Plaggmier finishing 200 miles at DVE; and not to forget horses owned and/or trained by members: Aleclipse at the Rides of March – 1st & BC! Sorry but this doesn't even count Cuyama or other rides that I didn't get a chance to peek at. It also is just a snapshot because there are a lot of other members who are just out there 'finishing and winning'. A big nod to our support network too – the family, friends, ride managers and crew who help enable a good ride ... especially the 'phantom' who filled my generator with gas at Cuyama ride (thank you whomever you are)!!! Most importantly, always keep in mind our wonderful equine friends who carry us over whatever trail that they can, whatever distance they're asked, until they can't any more (like my wonderful Tally, who is now retired to pasture but still hurries to meet me whenever he sees me).

So what's up next?!! We still have some fine tuning that needs to be done for the Fall Classic at Grant Ranch – the next update from our wonderful RM, Steve Lenheim, will be at our 5/16 meeting. For those on the committee, please be sure to connect with El Hefe' beforehand. Our June meeting and barbecue will once again be hosted by the Suhr's (6/20 – arrive between 6-6:30 p.m). Along with Maryben, they've arranged for an interesting guest speaker to discuss the growing mountain lion population (close to Marinera Ranch recently) and a Fish & Game representative. We'll be joined by a few of their neighbors who are equally interested in hearing from our speaker. Beyond that, our July meeting at Barry and Carole Waite's (7/18 & I can't wait to taste their fabulous wine). Our August and September meetings will be important for you to attend as well, when we move into the fall and prepare for our big ride.

In the meantime, keep your thoughts and prayers coming for Chuck Kessinger's speedy recovery as well as Angie Carter!

See ya'll soon!!

ABSORBING HORSE SENSE AT STANFORD'S SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

Sam Whiting

San Francisco Chronicle - Sunday, April 8, 2007

On the first day of course No. 252 at the Stanford University School of Medicine, a pack of horses will be brought down from pasture near Portola Valley and herded into a corral, so the students can lean against the fence like wranglers and study at the stock.

They are looking for both leadership and followership in the horse hierarchy, as indicated by ear pinning, tail swishing, nudging and nipping. After observations, five horses will be culled from the herd and walked up to a sand arena where the medical students will get inside the fence and either hug the rails or tiptoe in among them.

They are not here to diagnose what might be bothering the animals. Medicine and Horses, an interdisciplinary they are afraid," Kane says. "What we teach is how young doctors have to acknowledge their fear. Doctors are afraid all the time. That first major trauma that wheels in, you're afraid."

The class, Inde 252 for short, is offered by the Center for Education in Family and Community Medicine. Students must cover the cost of their boots or sturdy shoes -- no flip-flops or sandals. They also must find transportation to Webb Ranch, a fruit stand on Alpine Road that has been operated for three generations on land leased from Stanford. Webb Ranch straddles Interstate 280 and the horse farm is on the west side. It is a 10- to 15-minute drive from campus, plus a mile up a rutted dirt road.

That's an easy commute compared to last spring, when students had to hump it over Highway 17 to Santa Cruz. Among the brave was Tracy Dooley, a fifth-year student from Berkeley, whose prior horse experience had been, "riding fat little ponies at Tilden Park," she says. "I was just looking for an elective that was different. It's definitely different."

This becomes instantly clear when the professor comes up the muddy road in a Mustang with a brass horse hood ornament and "HORSNSE" on her vanity plates. Kane is from Boston, but she's no Ivy Leaguer. Asked what got her to California she answers "my thumb."

She volunteered at the Berkeley Free Clinic and got course, is not that kind of class. The students are here to learn how to deal with humans. Clinical Instructor Dr. Beverly Kane's job is to help them find the clues.

"Horses are not socially repressed like human patients are," Kane says. "They are superb at nonverbal communication." So are people, if the doctor knows where to look. That is the theory behind this spring quarter elective. Horsemanship isn't a prerequisite. It is more of a hindrance.

"People who ride horses aren't always all the way prepared to give that Zen mind attitude," Kane says. "In horsemanship, there is a right way and a wrong way. What we teach, there's no right way and wrong way. There is a way that works and a way that doesn't, and that's an exercise for the students to figure out."

The "equine experience" is fashionable curriculum at places fancier than Stanford. If you pay $949.70 a day to get your life in balance at Miraval Resort & Spa near Tucson, part of your luxury package can be to get down low to the rear end of a horse, lift up a leg and pick out the hoof.

Stanford med students get to pick hooves too, but not until the end of the quarter.

It takes a while just to get them to climb into the ring. "We don't force people and make them feel bad because involved in a "barefoot doctor-training program." This was enough to get her admitted to UC San Francisco's med school in the late 1970s without quite finishing her undergraduate degree.

The concept of horses as med school instructors was pioneered by Dr. Allan Hamilton, a neurosurgeon at the University of Arizona. Kane started her course at UCSF several years ago, up in Petaluma. Last spring was the first time it was offered at Stanford and things got different from the start, out standing in the mud and rain.

"One girl put her hand right in the horse's mouth," Dooley recalls. "I don't know that much about horses, but I know you're not supposed to do that. It shocked everyone and sparked a lot of discussion."

Kane asks students not to take notes. She doesn't want her students to think, because horses don't think. She wants them to feel. "Horses are about noticing the nonverbal signals that they give each other," she says. "For one reason or another people always end up crying in these classes because the horses bring out emotions in them."

Dooley did not see any crying, not even the classmate who put her hand in the horse's mouth.

The workload totals 24 hours -- a daylong Sunday session to calm the butterflies, followed by six Wednesday afternoons, for one unit of credit. There are no exams, though the horses receive a test of sorts.

"One of the things we ask the horses to do is an analogy for informed consent for a surgical operation," Kane explains. The way the horse signs the form is to walk across a tarp on the ground if consenting to the surgery and to resist if surgery is a no-go.

"The idea is that the horse is going to let you know whether he likes the way that you touch him or he doesn't," she says, "and you need to keep focused on the parts of the body that the horse uses to signal his displeasure."

Two effective signals for showing displeasure are kicking and biting. Neither has happened yet. "One horse did put his teeth on a woman's arm," Kane says. The student may have classified that as a bite, but the instructor didn't because the horse declined to clamp down.

"This was a person that had very poor boundaries," she says, taking the side of the horse.

APRIL QUICKSILVER MEETING

Meeting called to order by Kathy Brayton, vice president.

Treasurer's report:

General Account $4,978.29

Trails Account $1017.00

Junior Account $782.40.

Ildi Nadasdy moved that Quicksilver authorize spending money from the junior account to buy jackets for the club juniors. Seconded and passed.

Juniors are club juniors. This means that if they are AERC senior riders and under 18, they are still juniors within the meaning of the club bylaws.

Trails: Adopting part of the Tevis trail was discussed and will be put out to the club in the Quips for input.

Jennifer Voight will look into a Moonlight Ride.

Programs: Maryben reported on the speakers program for the June meeting at the Suhr's. There will be a wildlife biologist speaking on mountain lions. She will bring with her a Department of Fish and Game representative who lives in Santa Cruz County. We may also have a third speaker but Maryben will report more on that later.

Good Will: Cards were sent to Cathy Kauer on the loss of her brother; Julie Suhr for the loss of her horse Bravo; Debbie Boscoe for the loss of Alexander the Bey; and a birthday card to Don Brown who turned 70 in April.

Membership: It was discussed that the club should be more proactive in getting new members and getting the present members to rejoin. The list of current members will be published in the quips. If you are not on it, you have not paid your dues yes.

New business: Also discussed was the possibility of lifetime memberships. Steve Lenheim will be working on a proposal to be presented at the next meeting.

Fall Ride: The Fall ride has been sanctioned for 10/6. The committee will be getting together for their first meeting.

QUIPS Junior Page: There will be a junior page for the Quips and Ildi will be sending more information out about that.

Meeting was then adjourned.

PERGOLIDE BLOG

<http://pergolideaction.blogspot.com>

It includes summaries of the current situation from Dr. Eleanor Kellon (who has been spending countless hours working on this), with her posts that are most important for veterinarians tagged separately.

There are links to the major government players and examples of some of the letters which have been sent, and a link to the Save Pergolide petition which currently has over 3500 signatures - we still need a lot more. The signature spreadsheets are being sent to government officials, state pharmacy boards and others every few days.

If you only have time to send one letter, send it to the addresses shown on the FDA/CVM contact link. If you have time to send more - every letter, email or fax counts.

The debilitating side effects of Cushing's Disease if not controlled may kill more horses than West Nile, Eastern and Western Encephalitis and other diseases combined. Pergolide is currently the only medication which effectively controls this disease - supplies are dwindling and the FDA is dragging its feet.

ANGIE CARTER IN HOSPITAL

Dick Carter's wife Angie was transferred yesterday to O'Connor Hospital, had an angiogram where they found 99% blockage of an artery where a bypass had previously been done. The doctors were reluctant to work on an old site but didn't have a choice. The good news is they were successful in ballooning the vein and putting in 2 stents. With blood now flowing well to the heart, she's much improved.

I could tell in Dick's voice how relieved he is! Looks like she'll be coming home in the next couple of days!!! WooHoo!!!!

Dick and Angie are long-time members and as my 'west coast family', very near and dear to my heart. Thanks for all your positive thoughts and prayers!!!

TEVIS FUN RIDE MAY 19

The Tenth Annual Tevis Fun Ride, Seminar, Barbecue, and Raffle will be held on Saturday, May 19th. For $40.00, you get your choice of two sections of the Western States Trail, an educational seminar, a chance to win an entry to this year's Western States Trail Ride, and a barbecue. Check-in starts at 8:00 AM at the Foresthill Mill Site, where the Tevis vet check is held. Riders can choose to ride the 12 mile section to Michigan Bluff and back or the 20 mile one way trip to Drivers Flat along the California Street route. Shuttle service will be provided to move rigs. As the name indicates, this is always a very FUN day at a time of year when the grass is still (one hopes) green and the wildflowers are abundant. For further information and an entry form, go to the Tevis website at www.foothill.net/tevis.

IF I DIDN'T HAVE ANIMALS

I could walk around the yard barefoot in safety.

My house could be carpeted instead of tiled and laminated.

All flat surfaces, clothing, furniture, and cars would be free of hair.

I could sit on the couch and my bed the way I wanted, without taking into consideration how much space several fur bodies would need to get comfortable.

I would not have strange presents under my Christmas tree -- dog bones, stuffed animals, toys, treats nor would I have to explain to people why I wrap them.

I would have money and no guilt to go on a real vacation.

I would not be on a first-name basis with 6 veterinarians, as I put their yet unborn grandchildren through college.

The most used words in my vocabulary would not be: out, sit, down, come, no, stay, and leave him/her/it ALONE.

My house would not be cordoned off into zones with baby gates or barriers.

My house would not look like a day care center, toys everywhere.

My pockets would not contain things like poop bags, treats and an extra leash.

I would no longer have to Spell the words B-A-L-L-, F-R-I-S-B-E- E, W-A-L-K, or T-R-E-A-T.

I would not have as many leaves INSIDE my house as outside.

I would not look strangely at people who think having ONE dog/cat ties them down too much.

I could look forward to spring instead of dreading mud season.

I'd be able to roll over in bed without moving a pet.

I would not have to answer the question "Why do you have so animals?" from people who will never have the joy in their lives of knowing they are loved unconditionally by someone as close to an angel as they will ever get.

How empty my life would be.

HORSES FOR SALE

PROVEN ENDURANCE HORSE

FOR SALE: Shah Anahata AJ (Hank) (AERC: H32488) is conditioned and ready now for an experienced competitor! Hank is a huge boned, gorgeous, 11 year (DOB 02.19.96) old grey gelding, 15.3+ hand, 1125# (Bey Shah x Khemosabi). He was started slow, but hasn't willingly embraced the concept. He is very competitive, aggressive, and is 100% about going down the trail, fast. He is an unflappable, very confident, no spook, handy horse. He has extensive experience being ridden at night, encountering wildlife, beach/deep sand, desert, sierras, single track trails, and on both paved and unpaved roads. He travels very well, always EDPP in the trailer. He was shown thus picks up his leads and is round in the bridle. Sadly, he is too big and large gaited for my 5'3. 140# frame and has no interest in stopping for photos or smelling the flowers during rides as I do. This guy has serious FEI potential for the serious competitor. $7500 with negotiable terms. Serious inquiries only, please: Cynthia (707)964.4184; (707)496.1020 or cledoux@cwo.com. AERC record: 8 Starts, 6 Finishes- 280 miles; (1)LD; (4)50s; and (1)75 [05-07]
